A hand-drawn geometric diagram on a light-colored background. The diagram consists of several intersecting lines and shapes. At the top left, there is a small rectangle. A long horizontal line extends from the left edge towards the center. Below this, a large triangle is formed by two lines meeting at a point on the left and another line extending to the right. To the right of this triangle, there is a vertical line. Further right, there is a stepped shape resembling a staircase. At the bottom right, there is a trapezoidal shape. The entire diagram is composed of thin, dark lines.
