INSTRUCTION

1. Iron the fabric lining on two facing parts and the lower edge of the neckline on the front part and let them cool off thoroughly. Close the dart on the front part. Bind the rear neckline with the bias tape.
2. Finish the edges of the neckline with the facings; one with and one without fabric lining each. Iron the seam allowances to one side and narrow-topstitch them there. Pin the completed facing parts according to the markings front centre on front centre and topstitch the lower edges on the allowances. Sew the facings right side on right side on the front part; you best sew both long edges first, then clip the allowance in the corners and finally sew the diagonal seam.
3. Close the shoulder and the side seams. Close the sleeve seam. Mark the sleeve hem in quarters and lightly gather them. Close the elastic to a ring, separate the seam allowances and topstitch them. Quarter the elastic, mark it and sew it stretched wrong side on right side narrow-edged along the sleeve hems. Gather the top shaping and sew in the sleeve. Hem the blouse.
