

REVERSE APPLIQUÉ PANDA HOODIE

Stephanie says:

"A quick and easy way to customise and add character to a hoodie sewing pattern (or upcycle a hoodie), is to use reverse appliqué. This technique involves cutting out a design from a top layer of fabric to reveal a layer of fabric underneath"

NOTES:

> PATTERN NOTES:

We used the Rowan Tee by Titchy Threads (www.titchythreads.com) so we stopped and added the appliqué as we went along but you can easily upcycle an existing hoodie.

MATERIALS:

- ♥ scraps of black mid-weight jersey (interlock or ponte roma)
- ♥ 0.5m cream or white fleece
- ♥ scraps of wadding (optional)
- ♥ freezer paper or stabiliser (optional)

How to make:

- 1 Draw a tummy and face shape onto freezer paper (or iron-on stabiliser). Cut out and iron in place on the cream fabric. You can lay it on the front of the hoodie to roughly test size. (See Pic A.)
- 2 Cut the appliqué fabric to size and pin in place so the RS of the cream faces the WS of the hoodie. Sew around the appliqué shape using a stretch stitch or narrow zigzag.
